

Inclusion Ireland attends National Advocacy Service (NAS) Annual Report 2017 Launch

Inclusion Ireland attended the National Advocacy Service's 2017 Annual Report and strategic plan launch in Croke Park.

NAS spoke about the work they have been doing in 2017 and how the issues of housing, health and justice took up the majority of their enquiries.

Speakers at the event included Joanne O' Riordan and P.J. Harrington talked about the importance of advocacy in their lives.

The Minister for Employment Affairs and Social Protection Regina Doherty also spoke at the event.

The Minister talked about the importance of advocacy services.

She said that NAS should have more legal powers and that she will look into this next year.

She also spoke about the cost of disability and research her department will be doing on this in 2019.
